27th Sunday in Ordinary Time October 4, 2015

RESPECT Life SUNDAY
Genesis does not attempt to answer the scientific question of how creation took place, but the theological question, what did God intend? Declaring that “it is not good for the man to be alone,” God resolves to “make a suitable partner,” but none of the animals proves suitable to help the man transcend primal aloneness (Genesis 2:18). So God casts the man into “a deep sleep,” i.e., readiness for divine encounter (2:21). Using the only human material available, God builds part of the man (rib) into a counterpart, perfectly suitable, yet suitably different. Recognizing his “other self,” the man utters the first human words recorded in scripture, a canticle in praise of the woman: “This one, at last, is bone of my bones and flesh of my flesh” (2:23). Radical solitude transcended in this “marriage” of complementary gifts, “the two of them become one flesh” and the human race begins truly to live (2:24).

By citing this story while reflecting on divorce, Jesus seeks to inspire disciples to recover the wonder of that initial encounter between man and woman and the persevering self-gift then engendered. No 50-50 legal deal contracted before a civil tribunal, marriage “in Christ” is a 100-100 percent mutual self-oblation, transacted before the altar of Christ’s own complete self-gift, Body and Blood, sacrifice and nourishment for his bride, the Church.

Hebrews portrays Jesus making himself lowly in order to be one with his brothers and sisters in the human condition. So too the (longer) Gospel concludes with Jesus welcoming children as living images of openness to God’s demanding but delightful kingdom.

J.S. Paluch
Father Gérard, CJM

Married or single, do I treat others with the same reverence I deserve as a child of God? What childlike qualities do I need to cultivate in order to relate to others in a more Christ-like way?

J.S. Paluch
Father Gérard, CJM

They are not like elves, we don't know how many there are, and not all of them are nice. Angels are in. Angels are hot. Images of winged creatures are appearing on greeting cards, gift wrap, pins, pendants, book covers and bumper stickers. Manufacturers and merchants are cashing in on the public's renewed or newfound interest in these celestial beings, but how much of what is being said, written and illustrated is fact? And how much is fiction?

Here's what the Church teaches.

Fiction: Angels are like pixies, elves or leprechauns. It's fun to imagine they exist, but adults know they're not real.

Fact: Oh, yes, they are. Cod created the spiritual, non-corporeal (bodiless) beings we call angels, explains the Catechism of the Catholic Church (nos. 328-336). The Church bases this teaching on both Scripture and Tradition.

Each angel has intelligence and will, and each is a personal and immortal creature. In other words, each heavenly angel is a unique being who has chosen to love and serve God, its Creator. It is a being who will never die.

Fiction: All angels are wonderful and will help us humans.

Fact: Some are, some aren't. Some do, some don't. Heavenly angels—"good angels"—are enjoying great popularity these days, but their counterparts—"bad angels"—tend to be forgotten or dismissed as primitive superstition or childish fairy tales.

But the Church teaches that not all angels chose to do God's will. "The devil and other demons were indeed created naturally good by God, but they became evil by their own doing," the Catechism says (no. 391), quoting from the writings of the Fourth Lateran Council (held in the year 1215).

Some angels sinned. We don't know exactly what they did wrong, but their "fall" was a result of radically and irrevocably rejecting God and His reign.

And since the beginning of humanity's time on earth, the devil—immortal and powerful, but not all-powerful like God—has been encouraging human beings to also reject their Creator. No human being has been spared this tempting, not even Jesus (Mt 4:1-11).

Fiction: When humans, especially young children, die and go to heaven, they become angels.

Fact: That's a popular idea and oftentimes a comforting image for grieving families, but . . . no. Angels and humans are separate and different beings. Angels are 100 percent spirits; humans are both spirit (soul) and body. A human being's soul is immortal; his or her body dies. When the soul leaves the body at death, it is not transformed somehow into an angel.

Rather, a soul that has gone to heaven enjoys God's presence with the angels and joins with the angels—and other human souls—in praising God. This is the image the Church presents. In the liturgy for a Catholic funeral, we pray "may the angels lead you into Paradise...."

We have been enjoying our new Journeysongs hymnals for some time now. Unfortunately, some of them have already been defaced or damaged by scribbles, drawings, cartoons, etc.

This is just a reminder that all church property should be treated with respect, and please remind your children not to write or draw on our beautiful hymnals.

Thank you for your cooperation.

YOUTH MINISTRY

Confirmation is a two-year program that now meets each month on Sundays from 4:00 – 7:30 p.m.

Next classes:
- Year 1: October 4, 2015
- Year 2: October 18, 2015.

The day for Confirmation sessions has changed in a reflection of our parish mission to provide opportunities for our teens to encounter Christ. There is no better place to encounter him than in the Sacrament of the Eucharist at Mass each Sunday. Therefore, the 5:30 p.m. Mass is a part of the Confirmation sessions, and families are encouraged to attend the Mass with the candidates. Following the Mass there will be a short time of fellowship and reflection before the teens are dismissed.

If you have any other questions, you can contact the Confirmation office at 818-882-9355 or go online at www.stjohneudesyouth.org

SCHOOL STUDENT NON-DISCRIMINATION POLICY

The school, mindful of its mission to be a witness to the love of Christ for all, admits students regardless of race, color or national and/or ethnic origin to all rights, privileges, programs and activities generally accorded or made available to students at the school.

The school does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, disability, medical condition, sex or national and/or ethnic origin in the administration of educational policies, admissions policies, scholarship and loan programs, and athletic and other school-administered programs, although certain athletic leagues and other programs may limit participation and some archdiocesan schools operate as single sex schools.

While the school does not discriminate against students with special needs, a full range of services may not always be available to them. Get involved in school activities . . .
"Back-to-school does not have to mean back-to-worrying. Though safety inside school is ultimately the responsibility of the principal and school staff, parents can take a few basic steps to ensure a safe school experience."

Get involved. Talk with the principal about what you can do to increase school safety, such as organizing parents to form a neighborhood watch before and after school. Sometimes parent groups are highly successful in making improvements in traffic safety during drop off and pick up times.
